

Room with a View

FOR AGES: 6-12

MATERIALS: Paper, pencil, and markers, crayons, or colored pencils.

Frank Lloyd Wright loved nature and designed his buildings with connections to the landscape in mind. With hundreds of windows at Hollyhock House, Aline Barnsdall (the owner of the house) and her daughter Betty could enjoy the beauty of nature from whichever room they were in.

Look at this view out one of Betty's bedroom windows. What do you see up close, further away, and in the distance beyond?

What's your favorite outdoor place? On a separate piece of paper or the back of this sheet, draw a square or rectangle for the window. Then, draw an imaginary view of your favorite place through the window.
